

ACKNOWLEDGMENTS

Finishing my fourth year as editor of Clinical Aphasiology, I gratefully acknowledge and express deep appreciation to the many people who have made Volume 24 possible and who have contributed to the continuing development of the Clinical Aphasiology Conference (CAC) publication process:

- To the patients whose participation, behaviors, and test scores gave the data; and to the authors whose scholarship produced the manuscripts for Volume 24.

- To the officers of the 24th CAC for their contributions in developing and orchestrating the conference. The officers were: Marilyn Selinger, Conference Chairperson; Jennifer Horner, Program Chairperson; Lee Ann Golper, Treasurer; and Michael Kimbarow, Local Arrangements. Program Committee members included: Steven Belanger, Leonard LaPointe, Marilyn Newhoff, and Edythe Strand.

- To Alan Grimes, PRO-ED Production Director, for his patience, flexibility, and support; and to Andrea Bednar, Associate Editor, Carlisle Publishers Services, for technical editing, art, and pages. The infusion of her competence, commitment to quality, and humor made a significant difference in completing this volume.

- Most of all, to the Editorial Board members Jennifer Horner, Linda Nicholas, Richard Peach, and Connie Tompkins, who each gave generously of their scientific/technical expertise, countless hours, concern for the conference and the publication, and support for the Editor-Elect and for me. All were returning board members who have struggled with and helped to refine the publication review process, criteria, and standards for publication, as directed by the CAC Steering Committee.

- Special thanks, to Don Robin, Editor-Elect, for his energy, fast-forward style, and initiatives in the review process. He rapidly put into effect several of the changes that had been germinating within the editorial board and steering committee since 1990, when a publication committee was first charged with the future direction of the conference publication.

Any delay in Volume 24 will be worth the time and changes, if it prepares contributors, the continuing editorial board members, and the new editor, who was elected by the CAC steering committee on a platform of moving the publication to a journal format, for the Clinical Aphasiology Conference Silver Anniversary publication.
