

CONTENTS

Preface	ix
Contributing Authors	xi
I. THEORETICAL PERSPECTIVES
A Critical Look at the Notion of Selective Impairment Katharine H. Odell, Michiko Hashi, Suzanne B. Miller, and Malcolm R. McNeil	1
The Psychosocial Outcomes of Stroke: A Longitudinal Study of Depression Risk Kristie A. Spencer, Connie A. Tompkins, Richard Schulz, and Marie T. Rau	9
Response Variability in Naming: A Computational Study Steven L. Small, Audrey L. Holland, John Hart, Jr., Margaret M. Forbes, and Barry Gordon	25
Consistency, Variability, and Target Approximation for Successive Speech Repetitions Among Apraxic, Conduction Aphasic, and Ataxic Dysarthric Speakers Malcolm R. McNeil, Katharine H. Odell, Suzanne B. Miller, and Linda Hunter	39
Intention to Treat: Once Randomized, Always Analyzed Robert T. Wertz	57
II. RESEARCH PERSPECTIVES
Informed Consent Informed Consent in Aphasia Research: Myth or Reality? Aura Kagan and Mikael D. Z. Kimelman	65
Qualitative Analysis Multimethod Research: A Search for Understanding Roberta J. Elman	77
Addressing the Third Law of Gardening: Methodological Alternatives in Aphasiology Jack S. Damico, Nina N. Simmons-Mackie, and Lisa A. Schweitzer	83
Communicative Competence in Aphasia: Evidence from Compensatory Strategies Nina N. Simmons-Mackie and Jack S. Damico	95

III. ASSESSMENT AND PROGNOSIS

- Relationship of Word Frequency in Printed
Materials and Judgments of Word Frequency in Daily Life to Boston Naming Test Performance of Aphasic Adults 107

Robert H. Brookshire and Linda E. Nicholas

- Analysis of Verbs and Verb-Argument Structure:
A Method for Quantification of Aphasic
Language Production 121

Cynthia K. Thompson, Lewis P. Shapiro, Ligang Li, and Lee Schendel

- Prognosis for Improvement During Acute
Rehabilitation as Measured by the Western Aphasia Battery 141

*Jennifer Horner, Deborah V. Dawson,
Mary Ann Eller, Frances G. Buoyer, Joy L. Crowder, and Carolyn M. Reus*

IV. DISCOURSE AND PROVERBS

- Pause Structure in Narratives of Neurologically
Impaired and Control Subjects 155

Jane Teresa Zeches and Kathryn M. Yorkston

- A System for Scoring Proverb Interpretations Provided by Non-Brain-Damaged and Aphasic Adults 165

Shelley B. Brundage and Robert H. Brookshire

- Processing of Proverbs in Aphasics and Old-Elderly 179

Hanna K. Ulatowska, Sandra Bond Chapman, and Julene K. Johnson

V. THE RIGHT HEMISPHERE

- Effects of Noun Type on Naming Performance of Right Hemisphere-Damaged and Non-Brain-
Damaged Adults 195

Penelope S. Myers and Robert H. Brookshire

- Contribution of the Right Hemisphere to the Processing of Concrete Words 207

Pierre Rainville, Pierre Goulet, and Yves Joannette

- Drawing Inferences from Emotional Situations:
Left Versus Right Hemisphere Deficit 217

Janet D. Bisset and Andrea M. Novak

VI. TREATMENT OF INDIVIDUALS WITH APHASIA
The Effect of Cue Origin on the Facilitation of Aphasic Subjects' Verbal Labeling	227
Donald B. Freed and Robert C. Marshall
Changes in the Interaction Patterns of an Individual with Severe Aphasia Given Three Types of Partner Support	237
Kathryn L. Garrett and David R. Beukelman
Comparison of Active Versus Passive Prestimulation in the Treatment of Anomia	253
Suzanne E. Varholak and Craig W. Linebaugh
Training Novel Language Systems in Severely Aphasic Individuals: How Novel Is It?	267
Anthony P. Salvatore and T. Russell Nelson
VII. ERRATUM	279
Author Index	281