

CONTENTS

	Page
Maximizing Input to the Aphasic Patient. F.L. Darley . . . . .	1
The Assessment of Communicative Competence in Aphasia. H. Ulatowska, S. Macaluso-Hayes, S. Mendel-Richardson . . . . .	22
Performance of Normal (Non-Brain-Injured) Adults on the Porch Index of Communicative Ability. J.R. Duffy, R.L. Keith, H. Shane, B.L. Podraza . . . . .	32
Testing Auditory Comprehension in Aphasia: A Clinical Alternate to the Token Test. W.R. Berry . . . . .	43
Assessment of Oral Apraxia in Brain-Injured Adults. W. McNeal Moore, J.C. Rosenbek, L.L. LaPointe . . . . .	64
Verbal and Linguistic Impairment in Alexia Without Agraphia. E.T. Anderson, H. Ulatowska . . . . .	80
The Automated Pulmonary Function Laboratory: Clinical Use in Determining Respiratory Variations in Apraxia. M. Keatley, P. Pike . . . . .	98
The Measurement of Interictal Speech and Language Disturbances in Temporal Lobe Epilepsy. S. Porrazzo, A. Mayersdorf . . . . .	110
Melodic Intonation Therapy: Variations on a Theme. N. Marshall, P. Holtzapple . . . . .	115
A Natural Language Learning Program for Treatment of Aphasic Patients. D. Kushner . . . . .	142
An Application of Electromyographic Biofeedback to Aphasia/Apraxia Treatment. M.R. McNeil, T.E. Prescott, M.L. Lemme . . . . .	151
Training an Aphasic Adult to Respond Appropriately to Spoken Commands by Fading Pause Duration Within Commands. A. Salvatore . . . . .	172
A Treatment Procedure for Writing Disorders. S. Haskins . . . . .	192
Modular Therapy: A Practical Approach to Life Situations. E.G. Ritter . . . . .	200
Intermittent Auditory Imperception: Clinical Characteristics and Implications for Treatment. R.C. Marshall, E.C. Jeffries, M.T. Rau, L.C. Golper, J.C. Thomas . . . . .	204
The Basic Foundation Approach for Decreasing Aphasia and Verbal Apraxia in Adults. I.M. Houston Wiedel . . . . .	209
A System for Coding and Recording Events in Patient-Clinician Interaction During Aphasia Treatment Sessions. R. Brookshire . . . . .	224

	Page
On Employing Communication Aids in the Rehabilitation of Aphasic Individuals. G.A. Davis, A. Daniel . . . . .	.237
The Aphasiologist and Patient Care Evaluation. A.E. Boysen . . . . .	.244
Processing of True and False Affirmative Sentences by Aphasic Subjects. J.A. West, C.E. Gelfer, J.S. Rosen . . . . .	.248
Intersystemic Reorganization for Apraxia of Speech. J.C. Rosenbek, M.J. Collins, R.T. Wertz . . . . .	.255
Repeated Trials of Words by Patients with Neurogenic Phonological Selection-Sequencing Impairment (Apraxia of Speech) L.L. LaPointe, J. Horner . . . . .	.261
Effects of Environmental Stimulation Upon the Language Output of Aphasic Patients. E.G. Ritter . . . . .	.278
The Application of an Auditory Approach Using Non-Variable Materials in the Treatment of Aphasia: Two Case Studies. P.S. Czvik . . . . .	.291
A Clinical Study of Responses to Olfactory Stimuli in Aphasic Adults. J. Vandette Smithpeter . . . . .	.303
The Midwestern Pennsylvania Stroke Club: Conclusions Following The First Year's Operation of a Family-Centered Program. G.P. McCormick, P. Williams . . . . .	.315
Aphasia Recovery of a Right-Handed Individual with Right Cerebral Hemisphere Infarction. R.A. Lozano, C.A. Clark . . . . .	.321
Communicative Characteristics and Recovery in Thrombosis and Embolus Patients with No Hemiplegia. S. Key . . . . .	.333
 Round Table Discussions
The Minor Hemisphere. M.J. Collins . . . . .	.339
Formal and Informal Testing. M.L. Lemme . . . . .	.353
Alternative Modes of Communication. P. Malone . . . . .	.356
Termination and Follow-Up. L. Warren . . . . .	.358